MARKO HATLAK

Marko Hatlak is a famous Slovenian accordionist whose musical path began at the age of six in the music school of his hometown, Idrija. After graduating from the Ljubljana Conservatory of Music and Ballet he continued his studies in Germany – first in Weimar and later in Würzburg where he finished his postgraduate studies by professor Stefan Hussong. Fifteen years of performing solo concerts and sharing the stage with many acknowledged solo artists, ensembles, orchestras and conductors have led him to his unique and unmistakable approach. The musical genres he performs – tango, ethno, baroque and contemporary- are brought closer to the audience through music and story-telling, thus forming a genuine bond with the listeners.

Reading 10 pages of his short biography and extensive bibliography of his movements would be real challenge for tonight to digest all of its. But we have to he has recorded many albums, covering genres such as tango, ethno and contemporary. He has produced film and music lessons for primary and secondary schools. He has returned to perform various projects.
